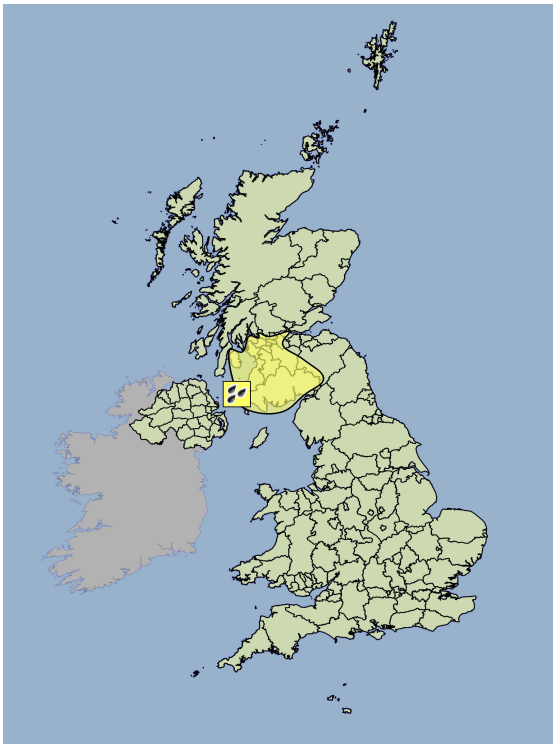
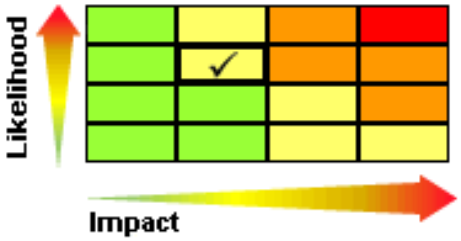
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A complex series of fronts will affect Scotland from on Sunday, introducing mild rain-bearing southwesterly winds. The heaviest rain will be in the west where 20-40 mm is likely within a 24-hour period and perhaps 60 mm over some hilly areas.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Rain

Valid from 15:00 on Sun, 21st Dec 2014 until 15:00 on Mon, 22nd Dec 2014

Outbreaks of rain spreading southeast across Scotland on Sunday will turn heavier across the western Central Belt and Southwest Scotland during the afternoon and evening. The rain will continue overnight and into Monday morning before clearing southwards by early afternoon.

The public should be aware of the risk of localised flooding, particularly on the road network, where there will be a lot of surface water and spray.
